Speeding Through a Yellow Light – Is It Worth It?

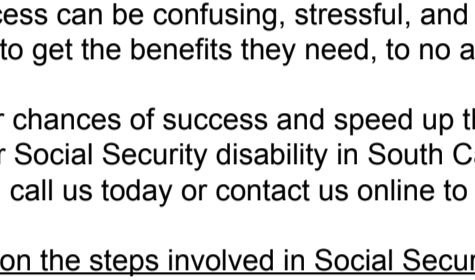

When approaching an intersection with a three-colored traffic signal, almost every driver understands that red means stop and green means go. However, there may be some confusion about the proper reaction to a yellow light.

A yellow signal is merely a warning that a light is changing from green to red, usually advising against crossing.

Many people view the yellow light as a reason to accelerate to get through the intersection before the light turns red. This action can be very risky, especially when drivers are turning.

Seriously? These South Carolina Driving Laws Will Surprise You

Every state has driving laws on the books that may shock you, strike you as being unnecessary or stand out to you because they are just plain weird. Roadtrippers, for instance, found several head-scratching laws in states across the country, including:

- An Alabama ban on driving while blindfolded
- A California city's prohibition against jumping from a car that is going 65 mph or faster
- An ordinance that makes it illegal to drive a red car down Lake Street in Minneapolis, Minnesota.

South Carolina is no exception. We recently cruised through Chapter 5 of the South Carolina Code of Laws – the state's motor vehicle and traffic laws – and found several items that we found to be interesting for what they prohibit or, in some cases, for what they do not prohibit.

Recipe of the Month
Chicken and Broccoli Twice-Baked Spaghetti Squash

This recipe proves spaghetti squash is made for the twice-baked treatment - it's not just for potatoes! The squash gets roasted, blanketed in a creamy sauce with chicken and broccoli, and topped with cheese before taking a turn under the broiler for a golden brown crust.

Ingredients

- 1 medium spaghetti squash (2 1/2 to 3 pounds)
- 1 cup broccoli florets
- 2 cups 2% milk
- 1 clove garlic, smashed
- 4 ounces Neufchatel cheese (or 1/3 less fat cream cheese)
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan
- 1 1/2 cups Shredded mozzarella
- 1/4 cup Greek yogurt
- Kosher salt and freshly ground black pepper
- 2 cooked chicken breasts, diced (use rotisserie chicken for a shortcut)

Directions

1. Preheat the oven to 400 degrees F.
2. With a sharp knife, carefully cut about four 1/2-inch slits in the squash to allow steam to escape while it cooks. Put the squash on a baking sheet and roast for about 1 1/2 hours. Let the squash cool for about 20 minutes on the baking sheet.
3. Meanwhile, bring a pot of water to a boil and prepare an ice water bath. Blanch the broccoli briefly in the boiling water then transfer to the ice bath to cool. Drain and set aside.
4. Cut the squash in half lengthwise and use a spoon to scoop out the seeds. With a large fork, pull the squash fibers away from the outer peel (use a towel to hold the squash in place if necessary). Reserve the squash and the outer peel.
5. Preheat the broiler.
6. Put the milk and garlic in a saucepan over medium-high heat and heat until it just begins to simmer, about 3 minutes. Reduce the heat to medium, add the Neufchatel cheese, Parmesan and 1 cup of the mozzarella and stir until melted. Turn off the heat, stir in the yogurt and season with salt and pepper. Remove the garlic. Add the squash, chicken and broccoli and toss to coat. Divide the mixture between the reserved squash peels. Top with the remaining 1/2 cup mozzarella.
7. Place the stuffed squash onto a baking sheet and broil until the cheese is melted and bubbly, a few minutes.
