Emotional-Support Animals and Dog Bites

Emotional support animals – particularly dogs – are becoming more and more common. It is not unusual to encounter one in virtually any place or situation. Because emotional support animals lack the training of other service animals, such as guide dogs for the visually impaired, dog bites are a very real threat.

Always use extreme caution when approaching any dog.....continue reading.

Most Dangerous Roads in South Carolina

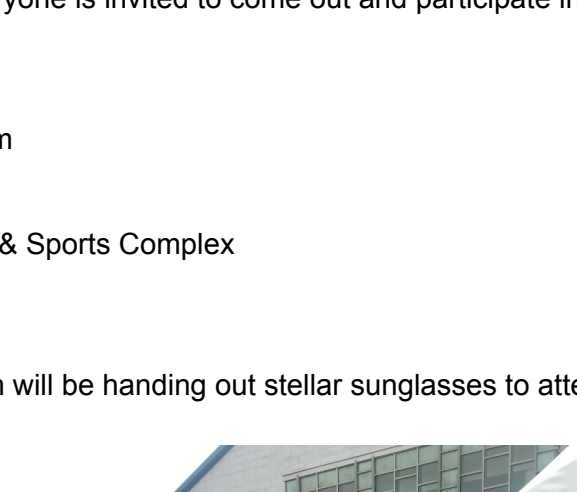

South Carolina is one of the most dangerous states in the country for motorists. In fact, the Charleston Daily recently reported that South Carolina ranked third worst for roadway safety in a study published by Wall Street 24/7.

The state had a fatality rate of 20.5 per 100,000 people, and its 1,015 roadway fatalities were the 13th highest total in the nation — despite being the 23rd largest state by population.

Any road can require extra attention when driving, some more than others.....continue reading.

South Carolina Workers' Comp Eligibility

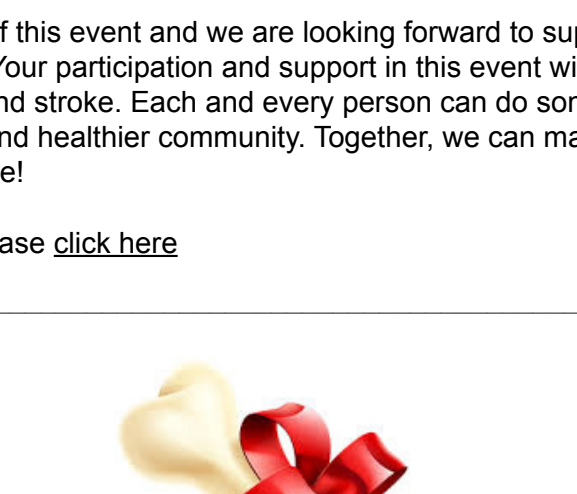

If you are injured while on the job, South Carolina's workers' compensation system can provide you with medical care, along with partial wage replacement and other benefits.

Employees who are injured in the course and scope of their employment or contract illnesses due to their occupations are generally eligible for workers' compensation benefits.

Always make sure you are fully aware of your rights and the process.....continue reading.

South Carolina Speeding Statistics

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), speeding-related car accidents caused 10,111 fatalities in one recent year – a 4 percent increase from the previous year.

Speeding puts all drivers at greater risk of an accident because it increases stopping distances, decreases the amount of time a driver has to react to another vehicle or pedestrian, and reduces the control the driver has over the vehicle. Accidents that involve at least one driver exceeding the speed limit often result in severe injuries and more significant property damage.

SLOW DOWN.....don't become a statistic and teach your young drivers to practice the same rules.....keep reading.
