Truck Accidents: Most Dangerous Roads and Highways in S.C.

Driving near a large truck on the highway can be intimidating, and for good reason. More than 15.5 million trucks currently operate on roads in South Carolina across the United States, and more than 2 million of them are tractor-trailers.

When a heavy truck collides with a passenger vehicle, cyclist, or pedestrian, the results can be catastrophic, and too often prove to be fatal.

Always use extra caution when in close proximity of these large vehicles.
